

GLK Foods is a fourth generation, family-owned company located in Appleton, Wis. For over 100 years, they have been offering superior quality and innovative food products to consumers.

Originally a pickling company and now the world's largest producer of sauerkraut, GLK Foods traces its origins all the way back to brothers Dave and Henry Flanagan, who began their business, Flanagan Brothers, in Bear Creek, Wis. After several mergers within the sauerkraut industry, Great Lakes Kraut Company, LLC, emerged in 1997, but it wasn't until 2010 that the company renamed itself GLK Foods, LLC, in an effort to bring additional food products to consumers.

Innovation has been the distinguishing characteristic of GLK Foods throughout its history. They were the first food manufacturer to use stainless steel vats, vacuum systems for loading and unloading tanks, and high-speed vertical form-fill-seal equipment for filling poly bags. GLK Foods continues to expand their innovative and state-of-the-art farming and processing techniques to ensure quality and freshness for all their products.

Continually committed to giving consumers choice and convenience, GLK Foods recently launched their Oh Snap! Pickling Co. brand, drawing on their roots as a pickling company. Along with their popular sauerkraut products, their Oh Snap! brand has reinvented the pickle as an on-the-go, single-serve snack.

A family business with a global reach, GLK Foods prides themselves as the maker of America's top selling brands and continues to revolutionize the food industry.
